

Health Guidelines

ITALY:

Maintaining good health and safety is a critical element of your successful participation in an Experiment program. As in the US, participants should always use caution in unfamiliar places and circumstances, but there are no precautions participants must know or take prior to the program. For this program, health, safety and security information will be provided to participants upon arrival in the host country.

Take good care of yourself!